

Rich thinking – An update

It has been a “rich” year so far. After the release of my 2013 white paper in Istanbul on International Women’s Day in March, I had the opportunity to present again to 700 people in Istanbul in May. And I just booked presentations for Toronto and Helsinki in October! Thanks to all of the incredible women who have generously contributed their wisdom to my research. Rich Thinking continues to be a strong progressive voice in the world of women and finance – please see all coverage on; www.barbarastewart.ca

I am hard at work on my next topic. Do you know any interesting women around the world who would share their stories about how they got started investing in equity markets? Please send them my way for a confidential interview. I can be reached at 416. 413 4216; barbaras@cpwm.ca; or LinkedIn. Even if you have been part of previous white papers, but think you have a good story around equity investing, please contact me and you can be part of this year's study too: the more the merrier!

Make sure to “like” the new online magazine Mrs R – I am excited to be their money contributor!

Finally, I continue to build my portfolio management practice, focusing on working with smart female entrepreneurs and executives who are too busy to manage their own investments. Please get in touch if you would like a complimentary portfolio analysis and recommendation. It is a great honour to be profiled in this month’s CFA magazine, and it will give you some sense of how I work with clients.

Happy Summer to All!
